

The Psalm of Roberto

By Roberto Bruno

The book of Psalms contains one hundred and fifty songs with various authors. The Psalms are deep expressions of the writer's gratitude, need, prayers, and displeasure with God. The Psalms are a glimpse into the hearts of the song writers. This week I would like to attempt to write a personal Psalm. Be patient as I give you a peek into my heart.

Lord I love You! I love You because You are God and I love You for all the things You have done for me and for my family. If I had a thousand years it would not be enough to communicate my gratitude for You.

Lord You are so patient with me. When I squander days away on my selfishness and roll around in the filth of my sin, You still love me. My foolish ways do not change the way You think and feel about me. When I am flat on my face because of my own doing You are there to pick me up. Lord You do not look at me with judgmental eyes or raise me up with critical hands but with grace and mercy that only You can extend to me. Thank You!

I love You Lord and I know it is because You first loved me. How I long to be like You. When Lord? When will I be delivered from myself? Strengthen me so I can be the example You called me to be. Lord I do not want to shame You but I want my life to exalt Your name. When people look and interact with me, I want them to see You.

Lord You are amazingly beautiful and Your wonders are beyond measure. Who and what can compare to You? There is none!

How would your Psalm read?
